L’ORÉAL
FINANCE
We have set ourselves the ultimate goal of creating value that benefits everyone.

JEAN-PAUL AGON, Chairman of the Board of Directors of L’Oréal

"Dear Shareholders,

L’Oréal continues on the path to success with an ever-stronger ambition, while acting with the sense of responsibility of a global leader. Dual financial and social excellence will always be at the heart of our business model.

We have set ourselves the ultimate goal of creating value that benefits everyone.

We create value for you, our shareholders. The resilience and outperformance of your Company are the perfect demonstration of its robust, virtuous and value creating business model. The quality of our results puts us in a position to offer a dividend of €6 per share, representing a significant increase of +25%. And the preferential dividend with a 10% loyalty bonus (1), at €6.60, is recognition of your long-term loyalty.

I also know that you attach just as much importance to the quality of our relationship with you, our shareholders. I am delighted to welcome the more than 30,000 new individual shareholders in France who joined us in 2022. We create value thanks to our 87,400 employees. And for them, their determination to go that extra mile, their creativity and their spirit of solidarity were, once again, exemplary last year. They have my utmost admiration.

It was only natural that we share L’Oréal’s performance with them. In 2022, we launched a third employee share ownership plan. More than a third of our employees around the world and two-thirds of employees in France are Group shareholders. That is outstanding proof of their attachment to L’Oréal. And it is yet another means of aligning their interests with yours.

We also need to create values. Entrepreneurial spirit, courage, respect, transparency, ethics and responsibility are the values underpinning our long-term future. The culture that binds us is a unique, fundamental asset that no other company could ever copy.

We create value for our ecosystem. L’Oréal is a global company that thrives on its diversity. But our heart beats in France and always will. We have nearly 15,000 employees in the country. Our French plants handle more than 26% of our worldwide production, even though France represents 7% of our sales. We have made France a land of the Group’s scientific and technological excellence, with 2,700 researchers and nearly 70% of our R&D investments.

We create value for our environment and society. Sustainable development has long been a priority for our governance, a pillar of our business strategy and a results-based commitment on the part of each and every employee. Alongside the many initiatives undertaken by your Company, the Fondation L’Oréal has also stepped up its efforts. This June marks the 25th anniversary of the For Women in Science programme, which has provided human and financial support to nearly 4,100 female scientists in more than 110 countries.

With your support, L’Oréal is more than ever driven by tremendous energy to continue its beautiful Adventure."

(1) Preferential dividend of +10% for shareholders who continuously hold their shares in registered form for a minimum of two full calendar years, up to a maximum of 0.5% of the capital for the same shareholder.
"Ladies and Gentlemen, Dear Shareholders,

2022 was a year of outstanding performance.

First, we achieved excellent results in all geographic Zones, Divisions and categories, reflecting balanced success across the board. The L’Oréal engine was firing on all cylinders, without a single exception.

We significantly outperformed the market yet again, growing 1.8 times faster and consolidating our position as the global beauty champion.

The strength of our performance allowed us to keep investing to support our social and environmental commitments in 2022, in line with our dual ambition of economic and corporate performance.

Our efforts receive recognition year after year, and in 2022, L’Oréal received a AAA rating from CDP for the seventh consecutive year. We also earned a spot on Ethisphere’s ranking of the World’s Most Ethical Companies, once again.

Beauty is a basic human need, and the quest for beauty is never-ending. The beauty mark has a long history of uninterrupted growth, even in times of recession, when consumer demand for beauty products holds strong.

The market has always triumphed over economic uncertainty, with an average annual growth rate of +4% over the last 23 years. The robust +6% figure for 2022 confirmed this trend once again.

But the factors which will contribute most to L’Oréal’s future success are first and foremost internal and structural. First, there’s the strength of our model, which has emerged from the past few years of crisis even stronger than before.

This model is underpinned by six pillars: the strategic decision to be a beauty pure player, meaning we’re about beauty, every aspect of beauty, and nothing but beauty; our Research & Innovation; our unique portfolio of 36 complementary and highly desirable brands; our unrivalled digital leadership; our industrial infrastructure, with 38 plants and 152 distribution centres worldwide; and the steadfast engagement of our 87,400 employees.

L’Oréal is a unique company that is particularly suited to the new era we are now entering. A new era which promises a more fragmented world and less regulated globalisation. In this world, we have numerous assets, starting with our strategically centralised but operationally decentralised multipolar model, which promotes real organisational flexibility, allowing us to adapt to opportunities and any unexpected ups or downs we may encounter. Our ability to stay ahead of technological challenges and our lead in Beauty Tech will also allow us to widen the gap even further. L’Oréal is undergoing an exciting transformation, evolving from “beauty for all” towards “beauty for each”.

Ladies and Gentlemen, your Group is set for success in the decade ahead and will continue to set the tone for the beauty market.

We will “seize every new opportunity” and stay true to our philosophy: providing the best of beauty for each and every woman and man worldwide. Beauty that is ever more inclusive, within planetary boundaries, committed and contributory: the beauty that moves the world.”

NICOLAS HIERONIMUS,
Chief Executive Officer of L’Oréal

LEXTRAKT FROM SPEECH BY THE CEO

“In a world weakened by climate change and environmental shifts, we can only continue to operate if we are also able to commit to more social equity and justice.”

Alexandra Palt, Chief Corporate Responsibility Officer and CEO of the Fondation L’Oréal, outlined L’Oréal’s CSR policy and key commitments, with a focus on the Group’s climate strategy.

What is L’Oréal’s employee turnover rate? Have you encountered any difficulties in hiring?

L’Oréal’s turnover rate stood at 12.4% in 2022, lower than the 14% seen in 2021. We received 1.3 million job applications last year, an increase of 7%, proving that L’Oréal remains a very attractive company. We also took fifth place in the Universum global ranking of business students’ favourite firms, and are the number-one company in France and Europe. L’Oréal’s 80% employee engagement rate (1) is also one of its strengths. Our people are the secret to our success, along with our incredibly strong corporate culture, underpinned by values spanning solidarity, engagement and passion.

With regard to L’Oréal’s share price, might you consider a stock split?

The past few years have shown that premium, high-quality equities are very attractive. So we currently have no plans for a stock split.

Is it really possible in today’s world to combine strong growth with a reduced impact on the environment in line with planetary boundaries?

That requires having everyone on board and transforming our business model on every level. Internally, we have shown that we are able to decouple our CO₂ emissions from our growth; compared with 2005, the Group’s CO₂ emissions have dropped by -91% while production volume has increased by +45%. Today, 65% of our plants are “carbon neutral” (2). Our upstream value chain is also key, with all suppliers required to pursue their own sustainability transformation. Downstream, it concerns consumers, which is why we are constantly seeking to innovate to launch products with a smaller carbon footprint. 97% of new products launched in 2022 had an improved environmental profile.

“97% of new products launched in 2022 had an improved environmental profile.”

What were the results of your recent acquisitions? Do you plan to focus on internal growth or external growth?

Among L’Oréal’s 36 global brands, only three were created by the Group: L’Oréal, L’Oréal Professionnel and Kérastase. The other brands in our portfolio are acquisitions made over time, always with the same strategy: buy brands when they are starting out or seeing initial success to “seize new opportunities” and then roll them out worldwide.

That is what we did recently with Takami, Youth To The People, Skinbetter Science and CeraVe. This last example is quite impressive in that we have increased CeraVe sales tenfold in five years to over one billion euros. So our acquisitions are developing and our goal is to make them grow in order to offer personalised, inclusive beauty solutions that meet the specific aspirations of each and every consumer.

(1) Korn Ferry 2022 internal pulse survey.
(2) A site can claim “carbon-neutral” status if it meets the following requirements: - Direct CO₂ (Scope 1) = 0, except for gas used for catering, fuel oil used for sprinkler tests, fossil energy consumption during maintenance of on-site renewable facilities and cooling gas leaks if they are lower than 130 tonnes CO₂ eq./year and - Indirect CO₂ Market Based (Scope 2) = 0. The renewable energy sources must be located on site or less than 500 kilometres from the site, and be connected to the same distribution network. The “carbon-neutral” status, as defined above, is achieved without carbon offsetting.

"Our people are the secret to our success, along with our incredibly strong corporate culture, underpinned by values spanning solidarity, engagement and passion."
Dear Shareholders,

Your Group published its first quarter sales on Wednesday, 19 April.

In a beauty market that remains very dynamic, L’Oréal has maintained strong growth momentum and posted an excellent first quarter, with sales up +13.0% like-for-like and +14.6% reported.

Boosted by valorised innovations in all Divisions and the engagement of our teams around the world, L’Oréal has outperformed the market in all geographic Zones and strengthened its leadership position.

This performance, which has yet to benefit from China’s reopening, demonstrates the strength of L’Oréal’s balanced multipolar model.

I am thrilled to soon welcome the magnificent Aēsop brand and its teams, which will reinforce L’Oréal Luxe.

Mindful of the current uncertainties, we remain optimistic about the outlook for the beauty market, ambitious for the future and confident in our ability to keep outperforming the market and achieve another year of growth in sales and profits in 2023.

NICOLAS HIERONIMUS
Chief Executive Officer of L’Oréal

L’ORÉAL INVESTS IN BIOTECHNOLOGY VENTURE

In March, the venture capital fund BOLD (Business Opportunities for L’Oréal Development) invested in a biotechnology venture led by Geno. The investment will support the creation of new sustainable ingredients derived from living organisms. Through Geno’s biotechnology expertise, L’Oréal will replace traditional ingredients with biobased alternatives, such as those produced from plant-based sugars.

TWO AWARDS FOR BEAUTY TECH INNOVATIONS

At CES® 2023, L’Oréal unveiled two new Beauty Tech innovations that expand access to beauty expression: HAPTA, the first handheld, ultra-precise computerised makeup applicator designed to meet the beauty needs of people with limited hand and arm mobility; and L’Oréal Brow Magic, the first at-home electronic eyebrow makeup applicator that provides users with customised brow looks in seconds.

L’ORÉAL RECOGNISED FOR GENDER EQUALITY AND ETHICAL PRACTICES

For the sixth consecutive year, L’Oréal was recognised by the Bloomberg Gender-Equality Index (GEI) in 2023 for having successfully created an inclusive and equal work environment. The benchmark index measures gender equality across five pillars: leadership & talent pipeline, equal pay and gender pay parity, inclusive culture, anti-sexual harassment policies, and external brand.

L’Oréal was also recognised by the international organisation Ethisphere as one of the World’s Most Ethical Companies for the 14th time. The award reflects the Group’s long-term commitment and its role as a leader in applying ethical principles to its sales practices, business practices and corporate culture.
