

L'Oréal named as one of the world's most ethical companies by the Ethisphere Institute for the sixth time

Clichy, FRANCE – March 9, 2015 – L'Oréal announced today that it has been recognized by the Ethisphere Institute as a 2015 World's Most Ethical Company®.

The World's Most Ethical Companies designation recognizes organizations that have had a material impact on the way business is conducted by fostering a culture of ethics and transparency at every level of the company.

Jean-Paul Agon, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, declared: "This 6th recognition makes us all very proud because it is the result of each employee's commitment on a daily basis. For us, ethics is an essential duty. A strong culture of integrity is a competitive advantage for a company, bringing long-term value."

Emmanuel Lulin, Senior Vice-President and Chief Ethics Officer, said: "We are particularly happy to receive this recognition by Ethisphere, because ethical questions are rarely simple; our strength is to have the courage to address them and listen to them so that L'Oréal continues to inspire trust. In a world which has never changed so rapidly, the launch of a new edition of our Code of Ethics improves our practices by adapting our values and ethical principles to the new challenges of our times."

"The World's Most Ethical Companies embrace the correlation between ethical business practice and improved company performance. These companies use ethics as a means to further define their industry leadership and understand that creating an ethical culture and earning the World's Most Ethical Companies recognition involves more than just an outward facing message or a handful of senior executives saying the right thing," said Timothy Erblich, Ethisphere's Chief Executive Officer. "Earning this recognition involves the collective action of a global workforce from the top down. We congratulate everyone at L'Oréal for this extraordinary achievement."

The World's Most Ethical Company assessment is based upon the Ethisphere Institute's Ethics Quotient™ (EQ) framework developed over years of research to provide a means to assess an organization's performance in an objective, consistent and standardized way.

Scores are generated in five key categories: ethics and compliance program (35%), corporate citizenship and responsibility (20%), culture of ethics (20%), governance (15%) and leadership, innovation and reputation (10%).

About Ethics at L'Oréal

A company's behavior is as important as its economic performance or the quality of its products. In this regard, L'Oréal's ambition is to be an exemplary company worldwide and integrate ethics into the very heart of its business practices.

- In 2000, L'Oréal was one of the first companies in France to establish a Code of Business Ethics and to appoint, in 2007, a Chief Ethics Officer.
- In 2008, L'Oréal's Chairman and CEO, Jean-Paul Agon, received the prestigious Stanley C. Pace Leadership in Ethics Award.
- L'Oréal is a signatory of the United Nations Global Compact since 2003, is one of the 100 companies included in the Global Compact 100 stock index and is a signatory of the Women's Empowerment Principles, an initiative of UN Women and the Global Compact.
- L'Oréal organizes an annual Ethics Day where employees from around the world can chat online with L'Oréal's Chairman and CEO and their country General Manager about ethics.
- In 2014, L'Oréal launched the 3rd edition of its Code of Ethics, which is now available in 45 languages and in Braille in English and in French, as well as a new ethics e-learning in 22 languages.
